NAVIGATION AT A STANDSTILL

6 TO 8 INCHES THICK.

The river in front of Alexandria presents a bleak appearance, ice about eight inches thick covering the surface from shore to shore. Only the powerful Norfolk steamers are able to forge their way through it. In some places especially the bends in the river, heavy flows have virtually brought navigation to a standstill.

The steamer Northland, from Norfolk arrived at this port about half an hour late this morning. She was half an hour getting to her wharf on account of the heavy floes of ice which had formed. Her officers report having encountered ice as far down as Maryland Point. After stopping at this port for a short time the steamer managed to forge her way to Washington.

The steamer Northumberland left Washington some time during last night for Baltimore. She was off Alexandria between four and five o'clock this morning. When off Duke street she came to a standstill, being unable to move in either direction.

The government tugboat Choctaw came to the assitance of the Northumberland during the morning and succeeded in releasing her, when she proceeded on her way down the river.

The steamer Three Rivers, of the Baltimore route, is somewhere in the Potomac attempting to reach this port. The Three Rivers is a paddle wheel steamer, and the Northumberland of the screw type. As the latter is unable to forge her way through the ice, there is no probability of the Three Rivers being able to come up the river at present.

Last night was one of the coldest experienced hereabouts for a long time, and at an early hour this morning the mercury in some thermometers was down to six degrees above zero.

Fair and warmer is the forecast today and tomorrow. The cold wave is now about to pass away.

THIEVES AT MANASSAS.

Two Stores and Freight Depot at Manassas Robbed.

Manassas, Va., Feb. 25.—The hardware store of W. C. Wagener, the Prince William Pharmacy and the freight depot were entered by robbers Monday night and considerable goods stolen. The robberies were committed in a snowstorm.

The glasses in the front doors of each building were smashed. The safe in the hardware store was opened and $7 or $8, a glass cutter, silverware, knives and watches stolen. At the Prince William Pharmacy the cash drawer was looted and carried a block away. At the freight depot the burglars feasted on ham and prunes, the meat being cooked in the stove in the room. A box of shoes and notions were opened and some of the goods taken.

Would Make Harrisonburg "Dry."

Harrisonburg, Va., Feb. 25.—A "dry' petition signed by 2,000 people of the town and the county will be presented to Judge Haas, of the Circuit court, asking that he refuse to renew liquor licenses to the seven saloons of Harrisonburg when the time for renewal comes in the next term of court.

Harrisonburg is the only "wet" spot in the valley and the petition will have many signers if the county unit plan fails to get through the present legislature.

NEWS OF THE DAY

The body of an unidentified woman, about fifty years old, was found by a policeman early Monday morning on the platform of the abandoned Sands street station of the Myrtle avenue elevated line in Brooklyn. An ambulance surgeon declared the woman had died of starvation.

A Japanese submarine, attached to the protected cruiser Hirado, has been missing three days. Naval authorities believe she has met with disaster and that all on board have been drowned. The submarine had been sent to search for torpedoes, lost during practice off Kakumajima.

As she was entering St. Michael's Catholic Church, Philadelphia, at noon yesterday to pray for work, seventeen-year-old Helen Morris was attacked by a man lurking in the vestibule of the church. Her screams attracted the sexton, which so incensed her assailant that he struck her across the face and threw her down a flight of stairs. The sexton found the girl unconscious with her lips bleeding, imprints of finger tips on her throat and her clothing nearly torn off. The assailant escaped when the sexton arrived.

Col. Brent Arnold, of Cincinnati, Ohio, over sixty years old, prominent clubman, society leader, and general freight agent and superintendent of terminals of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, pleaded guilty in juvenile court yesterday to a charge of contributing to the delinquncy of sixteen-year-old Mildred Crane. Judge Gorman fined Arnold $750 and costs.

After a desperate struggle with an armed burglar who tried to kill her husband, Mrs. Frank B. Daly, of New York, disarmed the intruder early yesterday, then turned him over to the police. The prisoner, who said his name was John McAdams, told the police he had not reckoned on violent opposition from the woman, believing she would be too terrified to move when he attacked Daly.

Mrs. S. L. Johnson, of Tacoma, Wash., a Titanic widow and a bride of two weeks, was shot and killed instantly at the Sutton Hotel, San Francisco, yesterday by Abraham Pepper, a former suitor. Mrs. Johnson formerly was Mrs. Herman Klaber. Her husband, who went down with the Titanic, left her $50,000.

WANTS FACTS ON BENTON.

British Government Seeks Freedom From Villa's Interference in Inquiry.

London, Feb. 25.—The British government has invoked the good offices of the United States Government to urge that there shall be no interference by General Villa with its investigation into the death of William S. Benton. The investigation is to be made by Charles Perceval, British Consul at Galveston, who has been ordered to Juarez. Consul Perceval has been instructed to submit the most complete reports obtainable.

Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Secretary, in telling the House of Commons today of the last developments in the Mexican situation, said Sir Cecil Spring Rice, British Ambassador at Washington, had been instructed to inform the United States Government that Great Britain considered it essential for a British consul to visit the spot where Benton was killed. Consul Perceval, besides conducting the investigation relative to Benton, is also to make inquiries about the two inissing Englishmen, Laurence and Curtis. Sir Cecil was instructed to ask the United States Government, as Great Britain had no means of communicating with General Villa, to instruct the United States Consul at Juarez to inform General Villa and to request an assurance that the British consul should not be interfered with.

Sir Edward Grey read a communication from the State Department at Washington to Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, which the British Ambassador cabled textually to the Foreign Office.

TWO WEEKS LEFT TO LEGISLATURE

BRAKE PUT ON BILLS.

Existent Measures Will be Rushed as Speedily as Possible—Few Important Bills Passed.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 25.—Members of the Legislature seemed to realize that from Monday the General Assembly will be in session a little over two more weeks, while the calendar shows that scarcely any of the important general measures have been passed.

With a view of devising more speedy methods of procedure, the House Committee on Rules today and the Senate Committee on Rules will hold a similar meeting within the next few days.

Of the eleven important bills of general nature the Legislature has passed only two—the Williams enabling act and the Weaver bill reducing the tax on bank deposits.

The Legislature has not passeed the tax reform commission bill.

It has not passed the primary bill.

It has not passed the rolling stock bill.

It has not passed the fee bill.

It has not passed the game bill.

It has not passed the workmen's compensation bill.

It has not passed upon the direct tax reduction bill.

It has not passed upon the co-ordinate college bill.

It has not passed upon the initiative and referendum bill.

Moreover, the appropriation bill which must be passed if nothing else is done at this session is not yet on the printed calendar.

The Wendenburg-Gunn annexation bill, while not affecting citizens in all parts of Virginia, but of considerable interest to the cities generally, is still on the calendar.

Already the legislature has passed a rule prohibiting the introduction of any more general bills. This will keep the calendar from further congestion.

The Rules Committee of the House will probably order night sessions to begin next week. These will considerably clear the calendar of local and uncontested bills, and make way for the bills of larger importance.

There has been some talk of a prolonged session of the Assembly. This, however, is not thought likely, though those familiar with the condition of the calendar do not hope that it will be cleared.

The legislature, by a two-thirds vote can extend its session for thirty days without pay. Leaders emphatically declare, however, that the session will not be extended.

Virginian Nearly Frozen.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 25. — A freight ride in a refrigerator car nearly cost the life of Joseph Caniskey, 13 years old, of Richmond, Va. He was discovered in a semiconscious condition, after having been in the car since Saturday. He was taken to the Philadelphia Hospital and is expected to recover.

When the youth was revived, he told the police he had crawled into the car after a quarrel with his parents. He fell asleep and the next morning he found the car was sealed and the train was moving; where to he did not know. At first he did not mind the cold, but later he became numb and hungry. During the journey he ate parts of raw chickens to keep from starving.

EXCITEMENT AT CHICAGO POLLS

HUSBANDS PEEKING.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Women had their first whack at the ballot in the aldermanic primaries yesterday and they flocked to the polling places by tens of thousands. The advent of women wrought many schemes. Some of the polling places installed mirrors so that the visitors might "primp." Candy, coffee, and rolls, and flowers were distributed by candidates. In several wards the women held the balance of power.

There was some excitement in wards in which women candidates were running in opposition to men for places in the city council.

Minor tilts were frequent in the Twentieth Ward, where "Morrie" Abrahams ,now on trial for election frauds, is a candidate for alderman to succeed his brother, the late "Manny" Abrahams. The climax came when Gotleig Slattery and his wife, who have been separated for some time met over the ballot-box. Slattery is an ardent supporter of "Morrie Abrahams, and his wife is a fierce adherent of Mrs. "Manny" Abrahams, who is running as an independent.

Slattery thereupon reached across the ballot-box and knocked her flat. She set up a terrific screaming and instantly the place was in an uproar. The factions had been snarling at each other all day and this gave an opportunity for a general fight. The crowd, fighting like wild cats was pushed into the street and the street crowds took up the battle. A riot call was sent in, and when the crowd was dispersed Mrs. Slattery was found sitting on her husband punching him vigorously.

On the West Side the officials had much trouble separating men and wives who insisted upon going into the booths together, to be sure neither voted wrong. A compromise was finally reached whereby the husband was permitted to hold back the curtain and watch his wife while she marked her ballot.

Miss Margaret Cunningham, who had never been in a polling booth before, became suspicious when she saw the curtain to the booth move.

"What's behind that curtain?" she demanded sternly.

The election officials finally convinced her the wind had moved the curtain, but had not infringed the right of women.

SEEKS DEATH BY FREEZING.

Would-be Suicide Rescued by Snow Bank by Pedestrians.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 25.—Ill from lack of nourishment and despondent because of his failure to find employment, Charles Adams, aged 45, years, burrowed into a deep snow bank at Mediterrenean and Kentucky Avenues tonight with the thermometer near zero, in an effort to commit suicide by freezing. He lay face downward and almost completely covered with snow for nearly half an hour before he was discovered by pedestrians, who sent a hurry call to police headquarters.

When Sergeant Holmes and a squad of men lifted the half-frozen man from the snow they found him thinly clad without gloves, and with his feet protruding through woefully damaged shoes. He raved wildly on the way to the City Hall, declaring that he was being treated unjustly and wanted to die. It is believed that he will survive, although he is suffering terribly from exposure.

HEARS FUNERAL BY 'PHONE.

Dying Jurist Listens to Service Over Remains of Wife.

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 25.—Lying on his death bed on the second floor of his residence yesterday, former Circuit Court Judge James Inglis, Jr., listened through the telephone while the funeral service of his wife was being held in the parlor of the house on the first floor. Pursuant to the wishes of the former judge, the manager of the telephone company had a large horn-shaped receiving instrument placed in the parlor of the residence and this was connected by wire to the upper floor, where a delicately attuned watch case receiver was placed at the ear of the bereft husband.

As he lay there quietly he could hear the entire service. The Episcopal service was read by Rev. David Stuart Hamilton, rector of St. Paul's Church, and there were several soloists.

TO DISCUSS THE MEXICAN CRISIS

England Persistent in Demands for Remains of Subject

CONFERENCE CALLED.

Rebel Chieftain Willing to Permit Relatives to View Body If Accompanied by U. S. Representatives.

The United States has demanded that General Carranza, head of the constitutionalists, order Villa to give it up.

England will persist in its demand that the body shall be given over to its representatives or persons authorized by them.

The American government is disposed to support this demand.

These are the four elements of importance in the Mexican situation which Secretary of State Bryan is expected to discuss with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today.

Secretary Bryan does not believe he has exhausted all the resources at his command to bring about a clearing up of the situation that has suddenly arisen in connection with the Benton killing. He is expected to tell this to the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, and he is also expected to outline the situation exactly as it is.

The secretary will not deny that the situation today is serious, that it has within it jingo elements which if seized upon could be con[ve]rted into a crisis of grave p[ro]portions.

But Mr. Bryan does [not] and has so stated, that th[e] in Mexico, or the relati[on] England and the Unite[d] ward Mexico constitute i[n] a menace to the policy of the administration.

It may be necessary, the state department authorities admit, to use stronger measures than have yet been adopted, to obtain the body of Benton, if England persists in her demand that the body be turned over to her representative. Mr. Bryan today would not discuss this phase of the situation.

But this much has been admitted: The State Department has acceded to the request of Sir Edward Grey the British minister of foreign affairs and has instructed Consul Letcher to see that Charles A. Percival, the British investigator, is given every opportunity to make a thorough inquiry.

The attitude of the constitutionalist agents here and on the border seems to be that the request of the American authorities should be granted. When they were informed of Villa's attitude they at once took steps to force him to comply with the request of the American authorities.

Villa will be "read the riot act" by the constitutionalists, but whether this will bring a break between Villa and Carranza no one can say.

Philosophy and a Moral

I know there are philosophers whose mission is to teach
Who though they give us good advice
don't practice what they preach;
Who tell us very prettily to "Be cheerful, laugh and smile"
"To worry, fret, complain and kick, is never worth the while."
If you want to make me happy don't give me your advice
But come around and buy a suit, because I need the price.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

Small Volume of Business Transacted Last Night—Brief Session

There was a short session of the City Council held last night, and papers presented in the boards were soon disposed of.

Board of Aldermen.

Six members of the board were in attendance. The only new business presented was a communication from the Co-operative Charities asking an additnonal appropriation of $250 with which to relieve the necessities of many who needed immediate succor. The communication was submitted by President Marbury. The request was granted by a unanimous vote.

The Aldermen concurred in the action of the Common Council on all papers sent from that board save on two resolutions for the placing of additional electric lights on Union street and in the northeastern section of the city. The Common Council had referred the same to the light committee. The aldermen added the finance committee to the endorsements.

Common Council.

Council held one of the briefest regular sessions on record last night, the meeting continuing for less than half an hour.

The joint committee on light and finance recommended that the resolution providing for 32 electric lights on Washington street, between Duke and Queen, be laid over until legislation has been enacted that will compel the Alexandria County Lighting Company to install an underground system.

This recommendation was made in response to a resolution introduced by Mr. Brockett, that $1,500 be appropriated for the erection of these lights. The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Mr. Brockett introduced a resolution appropriating $100 for the construction of a catch basin at King street and the county line to carry off surface water. This resolution was passed, the money to become available when a similar amount is appropriated by the county.

On request of John Starnell for permission to tear down several frame buildings in the alley bounded by Alfred, Columbus, Prince and King streets, and erect in their place a corugated iron work shop was referred to the committee on streets.

The committee of the Co-Operative Charities was granted $250 additional for use in caring for the out-door poor.

Mr. Brockett offered resolutions providing for the erection of arc lamps at several points on Union street. He said these lights are necessary to assist the police in their work of protecting the wholesalers of the city from robbery. The resolution was referred to the light committee.

He also introduced a resolution providing for an arc lamp at the corner of Royal and Princess streets saying that light was necessary on account of the habitual disorder in the neighborhood. This disorder had been so great recently that it became necessary for one saloon keeper in the neighborhood to petition the Police Commissioners for a special officer to keep order in his bar. It was also referred to the committee on lights.

A resolution, laid over under the law at the last meeting of Council appropriating $3500 for the purchase of the Black property on West street, near the corner of Cameron, was taken up and passed.

Captain Bryan arising to a question of personal privileges, said that he had received no notice of the last meeting of Council, and that this was not the first time that this had occurred. The President promised to see that in future he was notified.

A special meeting of the board of police commissioners will be held tonight at 8 o'clock.

DECLARED NOT GUILTY

Saloon Keeper Freed of Charge of Grand Larceny—Loses License

Agreements made between the counsls for prisoners and Commonwealth Attorney Brent resulted in the settlement of a number of criminal cases in the corporation court today. George S. Finch, a saloon keeper, whose place of business is at the corner of Royal and Oronoco streets, was found not guilty on the charge of grand larceny. He had been indicted by the grand jury on four counts charging him with receiving stolen goods which had been taken from freight cars in the Potomac railway yards near this city. Commonwealth Attorney Brent stated to the jury that after investigating the charges against Finch he was unable to present sufficient evidence to convict him and therefore asked the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty Finch was represented by Attorney Edmund Burke.

On the motion of Mr. Brent that Finch's license be revoked on the ground that he had violated the Byrd liquor law by selling on Sunday and to women and minors, Judge Barley entered an order revoking the license but granted a stay until April 30th, in order that Finch might dispose of his stock and discontinue business.

John Peverill and James Mason, colored, who had been indicted by the grand jury on four counts charging them with robbing freight cars plead guilty to the charge of stealing 48 pairs of shoes from the Washington-Southern Railway valued at $144 and were sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. Peverill was represented by Attorney Gardner L. Boothe and Mason by Lewis H. Machen. The men were found not guilty on the three other charges.

Linwood Nelson, colored, indicted by the grand jury, for attempting to kill William H. Rose, plead guilty to the charge of unlawful shooting, and was sentenced to jail for six months and fined 5. He was represented by Attorney Robinson Monroe.

Louis A. Tucker, indicted by the grand jury for larceny, plead guilty and was sentenced to one year in jail. He was represented by Attorneys H. Noel Garner and L. N. Duffey.

The jury was composed of A. A. Paul, foreman; D. N. Hulfish, W. B. Archer, J. Frank Hibbs, M. L. Rishell, J. G. Graham, Samuel Levy, John H. Fisher, E. L. Finks, W. H. T. Brooke, James F. Muir and John D. Normoyle.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

John Furr was held for the action of the grand jury today by Police Justice Caton on the charge of breaking and entering a house in the day time. Furr entered the hall of the residence of Mrs. Nora M. Foltz, at 810 Prince street, yesterday afternoon and took a silver pitcher and several small ornaments.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jones, of New Jersey, have returned home after a visit with friends in Alexandria.

LOCAL WOMAN NOW A BIG ADVERTISER

When one of our women customers recently bought five bottles of Harmony Hair Beautifier to give to her friends for Christmas, she started all by herself a mighty big advertising campaign, because not only does each one of the women to whom she gave a bottle of the Beautifier now consider indispensable for the proper care of the hair, but each of them has been means of getting several of her friends to use it. As a consequence, if things keep on in this way for a few months longer, we will be selling more of it than all of other hair preparations combined. Sprinkle a little Harmony Hair Beautifier on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Hair Shampoo. This pure liquid Shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of the hair and scalp, insuring quick, thorough cleansing. Washed out just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in 6 oz. shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler top. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall stores, and in this town by Wm. P. Taylor, druggist, 616 King street.

HANDLING THE SNOWFALL.

The Philadelphia Record, in referring to the slow process of removing snow, has the following to say concerning the Quaker City, which is equally applicable to Alexandria.

One who watches with more than casual attention the laborious process of removing snow from the city's streets after such a storm as Monday's cannot but be struck by the failure of inventive genius adequately to cope with this task. The method is as primitive almost as man's earliest agricultural efforts. The snow is shoveled into wagons which hold about two cubic yards. It takes two men about ten minutes to load one of these wagons, which is then driven off at a snail's pace to the nearest snow receptacle and dumped. In from half an hour to an hour the wagon returns for another load. And the number of loads to be removed after a heavy snowfall run into scores of thousands.

"Satisfactory machines have been invented for sweeping and washing the city's streets. How is it that the inventors are so backward in devising means to clear the streets of snow? They have at their disposal powerful gasoline motors capable with a small expenditure of fuel, of moving the heaviest commercial trucks. It would seem to the layman that it ought to be a comparatively easy matter to design a truck of four or five times the capacity of the wagons now in use which would scoop up the snow while proceeding under its own power, load itself in a minute and carry the load to the dumping place in a third of the time consumed by horse-drawn vehicles.

"It may be answered that to construct and maintain such machines for occasional use during the winter season would be unprofitable. But could they not accomplish a saving over the present cost of snow removal sufficient to overcome the handicap of the initial outlay? The question seems to be worth putting up to the inventors who have coped with similar problems and the city officials who are looking for more efficient means of keeping street traffic open in winter."

ECHOES OF THE PARADE.

Probably one of the most trying experiences of newspaper men is describing huge processions accurately especially when virtually the entire comunity turns out en masse and participates in the same. If programs are procured and attempts made to write scenes in advance, it is invariably a failure, as last minute alterations generally take place, while to describe literally the parade and call attention to each integral part and use complimentary terms to all is difficult, almost impossible, that is to the satisfaction of the participants. It was extremely difficult on Monday while the snow was flying and pedal extremities being frost bitten. Yet, in the main, the Gazette covered the field.

There were some features, however, about which more could have been said. In the olden time when the several military companies and the fire companies of the city were the principals, if not all, the features of the turn out on the 22d of February the task of the reporter was easy. It is not so now, however, when there is a general dress parade.

There were organizations in the parade Monday which probably made their first public appearance and which attracted especial attention. Among such was the Canton Alexandria, No. 5, Patriarchs Militant. This organization of Odd Fellows was organized about three years ago and their appearance in the line was generally commented upon in complimentary terms.

The Order of Fraternal Americans, a comparatively young and vigorous organization, also attracted general attention. Their float representing a public school house with the words 'We Stand For It," was especially suggestive.

The Indian Guards, another young and growing organization, also deserves special mention.

CHERRY TREE INCIDENT.

Rev. Charles Granger, D. D., of Gunton Presbyterian Church, Washington, on Sunday last made the following reference to the cherry tree incident in the early life of Washington and described in school books during the past century:

To what incident do we refer? We all know! It is almost as universally known as that apple tree incident with which the history of the race began. This cherry tree incident and Washington are forever linked in one and will never, can never be separated. Washington is justly known under a variety of captions. He is called "The Father of His Country.' He is remembered as "First in War, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." He must also be regarded as the one who made the cherry tree famous. His father, Augustine Washington, was a wealthy planter. He was evidently somewhat of a horticulturist and had planted in the garden near the house probably a sapling of a choice variety of cherry tree. Under his carefll personal attention it grew and flourished and his jealous eye was gratified at the growth and prosperity of it. His mouth watered as he thought of the luscious, "ox hearts" that would appear thereon by another spring, and the cherry tree that would delight his palate. Can you think of anything more vexingly delicious than a fine cherry pie? Imagine then his consternation, when going the rounds of the estate one morning and in spite of weightier things, having always in mind his promising cherry tree, upon going to see its prosperity, beholding it felled to the ground, the warm sap still flowing from the several ends and the chips scattered about. Maybe some things were said and I imagine some things were doing. The injury was beyond repair, but the culprit must be discovered and dealt with.

First thought, "an enemy hath done this!" But surely good Father Augustine had no enemies on his plantation. Some irresponsible servant may be the guilty party. But then as now, it would be impossible to fix blame upon a cunning negro, be he never so guilty, unless one caught him in the act. The family cow may be responsible! But the cow has not been out of the stable, and cows while fond of corn, are not known to eat cherry trees and throw the chips. They constitute an evidence that exonerates the family cow. The mischief has been performed by some sharp instrument, an axe is the implement. The gardener is called and questioned. He knows nothing. Every possible clue is followed up, but to no purpose, the matter is a mystery. Baffled at every point of investigation Mr. Augustine Washington is seriously considering calling his friend Sherlock Holmes to solve the problem and bring the guilty party to justice. When just at that moment like a flash there comes into the mind of Mr. Washington, Sr., the remembrance that his boy George has recently joined the Boy Scouts of Alexandria and purchased in an Alexandria emporium a hatchet such as all Boy Scouts possess. Ah, these circumstances clearly point to George as the offender. He is quickly summoned. Family and servants by this time are assembled at the very scene of offense. Young George is "put through the third degree" to use police parlance. Ah, there is a tragic scene. It is a wonder to me that no artist has immortalized his name and his fame by painting it. (Irate Father) ("felled cherry tree.) staff in hand, bewildered onlookers, guilty George, hatchet in hand. No question need be asked. Evidence is convincing and convicting, and a guilty conscience needs no accuser, when from the silence George's little voice speaks up. "I cannot tell a lie, I did it with my little hatchet."

The embellishments of this recital are probably as accurate as anything in the story. It is a strange thing how the story should become attached to the name of Washington, but attached it is and forever will be and one might well try to spell the name without a "W" as to think of Washington without the cherry tree incident and no biography of this truly great man is complete which has not this incident faithfully recorded.

There are profane critics who claim that young George in this story is not quoted accurately. That instead of saying "I cannot tell a lie" he really said, "I dare not tell a lie." But that will not do, for that makes little Georgie no better than the average bad boy who would willingly and cheerfully tell not only one lie but a dozen lies if it would get him out of a bad scrape. It is true that the evidence was strongly against him and he was doubtless such a sagacious little fellow that he saw that at once but we must believe as good American patriots that if all the evidence had been in his favor he would nevertheless as quickly have acknowledged his guilt "I cannot tell a lie," must be accepted as the right wording.

Mark Twain profanes the incident by claiming to be better than Washington in the statement that he Twain, could tell a lie but wouldn't whereas Washington simply "couldn't" and therefore deserves little credit for truthfulness. That it is simply a play on words. George clearly means, in the incident, that he "couldn't" because he "wouldn't."

Well, what is the upshot of all this. The origin of the cherry tree incident has never been established. There are those who even doubt it's truth. As no untruths as no authentic uncontroverted testimony can at this late day be obtained on the subject and as none promises to be discovered we must bear the truth of it upon the character of the individual concerning whom it has to do, in after life. We must begin as the bees do, at the roof and build down. By this simple and trustworthy method we find that there is every possible reason for belief in its credibility. In all the illustrious and praiseworthy qualities and excellencies in the character of the great Washington, integrity stands out as the sun about which all the other stars of character revolve. And in this he left a needed example to his countrymen of every day and of this day. And it is highly probable that a man, manifesting on every hand and in every circumstance such absolute and sterling integrity should have had in early life such qualities of character as to contribute to such an experience as "that cherry tree incident."

We will forgive George, as probably his father did, for yielding to the temptation of mischief of cutting down the cherry tree, for he must have been a very little boy at the time, since he was only ten years old when his father died. And, then again, who will blame a real live boy with a new sharp hatchet and a tempting little cherry tree, for trying the hatchet on the tree? We will forgive him for yielding to that bit of mischief but we will rejoice that he yielded not to the greater temptation, thet he committed not the greater sin, that he attempted not to make a bad matter worse by trying to lie out of it. And so this young Ibram Abiff said boldly to his irate father—"My life you may take, my integrity never. I cannot tell a lie, I did it with my little hatchet." We are glad he cut down the cherry tree, we are glad he was caught, for had he not been, we would never have had this sweet, beautiful, simple natural, great, strong, charmingly artistic little story of "That Cherry-tree incident."

The conviction of Charles Becker was set aside by the Court of Appeals in Albany yesterday. The court voted, 6 to 1, to grant a new trial to the former police lieutenant sentenced to death for inspiring the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler. The four gunmen must pay the death penalty. Their conviction was unanimously sustained.

A Neglected Cold Often Affects the Lungs

Many serious cases of Throat or Lung Trouble originate in a cough or cold that has been allowed to run on until the cough has become chronic. Don't neglect your cough or cold. Don't trifle with the throat and lungs. They become fearfully weakened in many cases by the neglect of bringing the treatment needed. Investigate this—Eckman's Alterative.

Saratoga, N. Y., ——

"Gentlemen: For five or six years I was troubled with cough and expectoration. Finally I had a high fever. My cough was declared being Trouble by my physician. I was given Cod Liver Oil, Creosote and other medicines, all without benefit. At Christmas time, 1909, I was not expected to live. Calling Dr. B. H. McArthur, he advised the use of Eckman's Alterative, which I took with excellent results. I have enjoyed perfect health. I go out in all weathers and have had no cough or cold whatever. I give these facts to encourage others to use Eckman's Alterative."

NEWS OF THE OLD DOMINION

STEAMER POUNDED BY SEAS.

Crew Remains on Vessel Despite 52-Mile Gale.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 25.—The entire Virginia coast last night was in the grasp of the worst storm in several years. Accompanied by snow the wind reached a velocity of 52 miles an hour at Cape Hatteras, and the Danish steamer Berlin, unable to weather the gale, put into Lookout Cove where her cargo of asphalt shifted.

The British steamer Sachem, which went a shore off Hog Island Sunday morning, was pounding heavily in the bow,and wrecking tugs standing by, were unable to help her. Captain Evans requested the tug Merritt to stand by as close as safety would permit so that if it was found necessary to take off the crew she could reach assistance.

The revenue cutter Onandaga was the first to reach the Sachem left yesterday and came into Hampton Roads, but went out again last night. She is enroute to assist an unknown vessel in distress below the capes. She will return to the Sachem tomorrow.

The Sachem is reported to have six passengers on board. She is on a shoal that faces the open sea and gets the full force of the storms that blow north from Hatteras.

The stranded steamer Riverdale was reported in a fair condition tonight. Her bow was pulled toward deep water and she is in a fair way to be floated. Most of her cargo of lumber has been thrown overboard and floated ashore.

PRISON CONTRACTS.

Penitentiary Board Plans to Abolish System.

Richmond, Feb. 25.—The board of directors of the State Penitentiary is at work on a plan for employing the long-time and dangerous prisoners which will make unnecessary the contracting of their labor after the expiration of the present five-year contract.

Public opinion, growing daily more pronounced against the working of convicts under contract, has driven the board of directors to devise a substitute, and in all probability the present penitentiary contract will be the last.

The bill was supported by representatives of organized labor, who claimed that the shirts made at the penitentiary come into injurious competition with the same product manufactured in the State by free labor. It was only fair to the honest workman and the employer of free labor, it was contended, that the buying public be given an opportunity of discriminating between the prison-made shirt and the normally manufactured garment.

To this argument the prison officials replied that the product of the State Penitentiary is shipped to distant sections of the country and does not in any way come into competition with the free labor product made in Virginia.

HOPES OF PROHIBITIONISTS.

Anti-Saloon League President Predicts Prohibition Majority in Norfolk.

Norfolk, Feb. 25.—Despite a widely prevailing impression that Norfolk is a local option quarter, and likely to make a strong show of that sentiment in the prohibition election authorized by the enabling act signed last week by Governor Stuart, J. W. Hough, president of the Virginia Anti-Saloon League, makes the prediction that the "drys" will carry Norfolk by a majority of from 500 to 1,000. At the same time he said that he would not accept off-hand a majority of 50,000 for the State at large.

Asked upon what he based his forecast of a prohibition majority in Norfolk, Mr. Hough said it was a rapidly changing sentiment which had been particularly noticeable during the last few months, with the agitation incident to the debate and passage of the enabling act.

"The State is going 'dry' as surely as an election is held, and it is my belief that Norfolk will contribute from 500 to 1,000 to the tremendous majority which the State as a whole will give the cause of temperance through prohibition," said Mr. Hough.

"Since the enabling act as passed and signed by the governor provides for the ticket to read 'for' or against' prohibition, would not be willing to accept 50,000 as the majority in favor of prohibition," he added, "It was my estimate that the Senate amendment providing that the ticket should read 'for prohibition' or 'for local option' would cost us at least 10,000 votes."

The House bill had it "for" or 'against" prohibition, but the Senate amended this to read "for prohibition" or "for local option." When the measure went to conference the committee of conference reportd in favor of the provisions of the House bill in that particular, and the act as finally passed so provides.

The Anti-Saloon League leaders will meet at Richmond next Friday to make arrangements for getting in circulation a petition asking the Governor to call for a prohibition election for September 24, 1914, as provided by the enabling act.

$40,000 FOR FRISCO FAIR.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 25. — The Senate yesterday passed the House bill providing for pensions for members of the Supreme Court of Appeals upon their retirement after reaching the age of 70 years, fixing the pension salary at $3,000 a year.

The House concurred in the Senate bill appropriating $5,000 for 1914 and 1915 for the home for needy Confederate women, located in Richmond.

The Cannon bill, prohibiting the employment of minors and females in any establishment where intoxicating liquors are manufactured or handled was the subject of many amendments in the senate and was under discussion when the time for the special order for the Game Bill arrived. An amendment to the Game bill striking out all licenses, was under consideration when the Senate adjourned.

The Senate finance committee reported a substitute for the several tax commission resolutions, fixing the membership at seven—three from the House, two from the Senate, and the Governor to name two.

HER FRIEND'S GOOD ADVICE

The Results Made This Newburg Lady Glad She Followed Suggestion.

Newburg, Ala.—"For more than a year," writes Myrtle Cothrum, of this place, "I suffered with terrible pains in my back and head. I had a sallow complexion, and my face was covered with pimples. Our family doctor only gave me temporary relief.

A friend of mine advised me to try Cardui, so I began taking it, at once, and with the best results, for I was cured after taking two bottles. My mother and my aunt have also used Cardui and were greatly benefited.

Cardui is a purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, tonic remedy for women, and will benefit young and old.

Cardui has helped a million women back to health and strength.

Have you tried it? If not please do. It may be just what you need.

$1,000 FOR WOMAN'S COLLEGE.

Sends Cablegram From Her Home in England Expressing Her Interest in Movement.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 25.—Foremost among those to come forward to aid the endowment fund of the proposed co-ordinate Woman's College at the University of Virginia is Mrs. William Waldorf Astor, well known to all Virginia people as Miss Nannie Langhorne, of Albemarle and Richmond.

Mrs. Astor's European residence has not dimmed her love for Virginia. When she heard of the efforts which were being made in her native state for the higher education of women she at once cabled the local committee in charge of the campaign for the co-ordinate college indicating her intention of contributing $1,000 to the endowment fund.

The telegram came from her beautiful home in England "Cliveden." Mrs. Astor is very much interested in everything that pertains to Virginia, and is letting no opportunity pass unnoticed for doing something to assist her native state.
